

Globalization and Social Change

Part III: Ethnonationalism and the West

- Democracy in America: *How democracy and markets were made compatible
- America as a Global Market-Dominant Minority: *Is this why “they” hate us?
- What can be done? *Possible ways forward

Globalization and Social Change

“There is always an inherent tension between market capitalism and democracy.”

What, according to Claus Offe, is “one of the great surprises of modern history?” (p. 192)

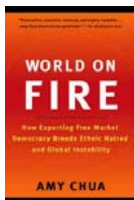

Discuss:

How were markets and democracy reconciled over time, according to Chua?

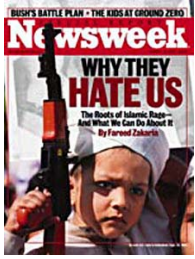

Globalization and Social Change

What is Chua’s critique of the U.S. policy of exporting capitalism and democracy?

Globalization and Social Change

America as a Global Market-Dominant Minority

- what is the basic argument?
- what other factors reinforce this?
- what are the varieties of "anti-Americanism"?

Friendly anti-americanism

Homicidal anti-americanism

Globalization and Social Change

The Future of Free Market Democracy

What is to be done?

- markets first, democracy later?
- leveling the playing field
- devising measures and institutions restraining the worse excesses of markets and democracy
- initiatives by market-dominant minorities
